

For Parents and Guardians

From the Range Camp Directors:

Thank you for your interest in the California Rangeland and Natural Resources Management Camp Experience ("Range Camp" for short).

This program has been put on by members of the California-Pacific chapter of the Society for Range Management ("CalPac SRM") for 33 years now. Our goal has been to introduce students to the professional world of plant, animal, and landscape management. To do this we invite experts in scientific disciplines related to wildlife, forestry, rangeland, and plants, as well as experienced professionals who are involved in managing resources of these kinds on a daily basis. We aim to make the camp a fun experience for the students, and interesting as well. We try to send them home with a useful understanding of the great diversity of career opportunities that are available, and the different paths through colleges and universities that can take them there.

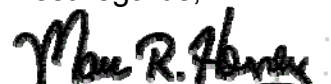

The camp is run by a group of volunteers who take our personal time to organize each year's event and serve as primary staff for all or parts of the camp week. We do our best to limit costs to the greatest extent we can without undermining the educational and social experience of the program. The only paid staff are our two or three counselors, and our camp chef, Marty Deardorf, who, for actual gainful employment, manages Aurora catering (<http://auroracateringbayarea.com/>). All staff who remain overnight during the week of camp are required to undergo a background check.

One of the ways that we have tried to limit costs has been to associate closely with the University of California's 4-H Youth Development program (<http://ca4hfoundation.org/about>). This is why a substantial part of this application is completing 4-H-related paperwork. Range Camp students basically sign up for 4-H for the purpose of attending camp, and qualifying for event-related insurance. Students who are already active in 4-H can bypass most of this, but they need to have their current enrollment verified for us through their local 4-H office. Students who are not regular 4-H members have no further obligation to 4-H after the Range Camp event is over.

We also sometimes include liability waivers for some of the facilities that we take the students on field trips to, if they are requested by the owners/managers.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact the Range Camp staff at range.camp@gmail.com.

Please note that Range Camp will cover the cost to enroll students in 4-H.

4-H Enrollment Forms, Medical Release, and Health History forms must be turned in with the application even if the student is already a member of 4-H. Range Camp will verify member status with 4-H.

Range Camp encourages sponsors and campers to establish agreements that indicate the sponsor's expectations of the camper before, during, and after camp (pre- or post-camp meeting with the sponsor etc.). We also suggest that sponsors include in that agreement a determination of who will be financially responsible for camp fees in the case that a camper withdraws from camp after the camp fee refund cutoff date (May 26, 2017).

4-H Youth Development Program

The 4-H Youth Development Program (4-H YDP) provides a wide variety of enrichment activities with the ultimate goal of engaging youth in reaching their fullest potential while advancing the field of youth development. The focus of all programs is the development of citizenship, leadership, and life skills through a variety of projects and activities. 4-H is available through several different delivery methods including clubs, special interest, day camps, overnight camping, school enrichment programs, school-age child care programs, and individual study.

The purpose of 4-H YDP is to help young people discover and develop their potential in partnership with a caring adult. 4-H encourages young people to set their own goals and make their own plans and decisions. This helps boys and girls mature and build self-confidence. By being part of a group, 4-H members learn to understand and cooperate with others.

The core values of the California 4-H Youth Development Program:

- Support the University of California Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources' mission and strategic planning assumptions.
- Recognize that 4-H Youth Development staff provides the youth development framework for volunteers and other cooperators who bring the knowledge, experience, and passion to work with youth in their communities.
- Appreciate, respect, and value diversity through a commitment to inclusion of diverse Californians.
- Respond to local needs within a context of statewide criteria, practices, and priorities for 4-H programming.
- Innovate to maximize impact and resources while documenting the unique youth development contributions of our 4-H Youth Development programs.

The goals of the 4-H YDP are to help young people:

- Develop citizenship, leadership, and life skills.
- Develop initiative and assume responsibility.
- Develop the ability to live and work cooperatively with others.
- Acquire knowledge and skills and explore careers.
- Achieve satisfaction from work and accomplishments.
- Develop a positive self-image.

Learn by doing in an atmosphere where learning is fun is a basic philosophy of the 4-H YDP. The project is where learn-by-doing or the experiential education model takes place. Within the project, members find things to learn, to do, to make, to explore, and then receive feedback. A 4-H project is:

- Planned work in an area of interest to the 4-H member.
- Guided by a 4-H adult volunteer who is the project leader.
- Aimed at planned objectives that can be attained and measured.
- Summarized by some form of record keeping.

Each year, a 4-H member enrolls in at least one project. Members enrolling for the first time should be encouraged to take on only one project. As members gain experience, the size of the project may be increased or additional projects may be selected. With their project leader and parent/guardian as consultants, members should select a project that will be a challenge, but not one that is larger than they can handle. Any project a 4-H member selects should be based on:

- Interests, needs, and time available.
- Family situation.
- Suitability to area of residence.
- Availability of necessary tools and equipment.
